april - may 2018:

The Wide Word – A Journey with Schubert

Poetical music theatre for adults and children

A babbling brook, the delicate green of the willow, birds sing their song: Spring has come!
A young miller sets out with a well-filled knapsack. From village to village, looking for a job – and love.
Songs by Franz Schubert accompany him on an adventurous quest full of desire, merriment and surprise.
Six puppeteers play the big wooden marionets and the countless animal figures in ever changing landscapes.

The performance will be performed with our own musical recording in Dutch. Because of the musical and visual character of the performance, there is no serious barrier of language. A program sheet in English will be provided.
